Churchill Fears Russia, West
May 'Tumble' Into World WarNew Prime Minister Makes Broad
Hint For Further American Help

LONDON, Nov. 9 (P)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill voiced fear tonight that Russia and the West may "tumble or drag each other" into a third world war.

The premier said he had the feeling that neither side wants to fight and both are afraid of war's consequences.

In a speech delivered at the annual dinner of the lord mayor of London, the 76-year-old wartime leader declared:

"What is the world scene as presented to us today? Mighty forces armed with fearful weapons are baying at each other across a gulf which I have the feeling tonight neither wishes and both fear to cross, but into which they may tumble or drag each other to their common ruin."

Church said American efforts to deter Communist aggression are "the main foundation of peace."

U. S. Atom Bomb Mentioned

"A title of the efforts now being made by America would have prevented the Second World War and would have probably led to the downfall of Hitler, with scarcely any blood shed except his own," he asserted. "I feel deep gratitude toward our great American ally. They have risen to the leadership of the world without any other ambition but to serve its highest causes faithfully."

The new prime minister added pointedly:

"It must not be forgotten that under the late (Labor) government we took particular risks in providing the principal atomic base for the United States in East Anglia (in Eastern England), and that in consequence we placed ourselves in the very forefront of Soviet antagonism."

Egypt Compares
British Buildup
To Nazi TacticsNote Declares Suez
Situation Is Worse

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 9 (P)—Egypt accused Britain tonight of using Nazi-like tactics in pouring armed forces into the disputed Suez Canal zone.

A formal note handed to the British embassy said the "uninterrupted influx" of British troops "can only encourage and intensify spontaneous movements of resistance of the Egyptian people." The note said the Suez situation is getting worse daily, but there were no reports of major violence today.

British Determined To Stay

A British embassy spokesman said Egypt's note "contains one true statement—which is that we mean to stay on the canal."

A British military communiqué repeated a recent statement of Lt. Gen. Sir George Erskine, Suez zone commander: "The British are not going to be kicked out or thrown out or knocked out."

The Egyptian note said the British actions "recall acts of Nazi authorities during World War II." It protested alleged British thefts, shootings and other acts of force and said civilians are humiliated by being searched.

40,000 Troops In Suez

It accused Britain of all but stopping communications between the zone and the rest of Egypt and of effecting an almost complete seizure of the canal itself contrary to treaty rights.

British forces in the Suez recently were estimated by authoritative British sources at 40,000 men. Under the 1936 British-Egyptian treaty which Egypt has disowned, Britain is allowed to have 10,000 troops and 400 air pilots plus auxiliary personnel in the canal zone; but there is no limit in time of war, threat of war or when urgent international necessity exists.

Two Prison Officials Are Slain By Fugitive

SOMERSET, Ky., Nov. 9 (P)—Two prison officials were shot and killed today by a fugitive who was returning to Tennessee's Brushy Mountain Prison at Petros.

Dead were W. L. Cox, 40, prison transportation officer, and Joe Blevins, 60, a record clerk. Cox was killed instantly. Blevins died at a Somerset hospital a few hours after being shot.

A basic element of the Eisenhower plan reportedly is a swifter interim buildup so that an integrated fighting force of about 30 divisions will be standing guard in Europe before the end of next year.

Woman's "I Do, Sir" Ends
Long Fight For Citizenship

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9 (P)—Her eyes blinked and her lips quivered, but the words came low and clear: "I do, sir."

Thus ended Mrs. Marion Copeland Sandborne's two and one-half year fight to join her husband as a U. S. citizen.

Mrs. Sandborne's battle was complicated because of a conscientious objection to war. A slim, 43-year-old mother of four, she in an oath of allegiance to this country—that she was willing to bear arms for the U. S. or perform non-combatant service in the armed forces.

Her "I do, sir" response today was to the reading of a special oath or allegiance which omitted reference to those points.

Judge Robert N. Wilkin of Cleveland beamed as Mrs. Sandborne spoke her three words, then told her:

"The court welcomes you to citizenship of the United States, the greatest country in the history of the world—not because it is the most powerful, but because it has achieved the noblest and greatest aspirations of mankind."

As she turned from the bench, she was embraced by her husband, the Rev. Leon D. Sandborne, a Presbyterian minister who now is serving as pastor of the Union Church at Berea, Ky. She is a native of Montreal, Canada.

Russia Urged
To Talk Arms
Cut Now In U.N.Soviet Are Silent
On Jessup's Call

PARIS, Nov. 9 (P)—The United States urged Soviet Russia today to enter disarmament talks immediately in the sixth U. N. General Assembly instead of waiting for development of a Russian-proposed world conference outside the U. N.

The Russians were silent on the call, issued by U. S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup at a special news conference.

Some leading delegates expressed shock and amazement that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky chose to laugh off the arms limitation plan proposed yesterday by the United States, Britain and France.

Yugoslavia Accuses Russia

At the same time, Yugoslavia charged the Russians and their satellites have been exercising aggressive pressure against the Yugoslavs. Premier Marshal Tito's Communist nation submitted a memorandum to the Assembly saying the pressure was exerted "for the purpose of encroaching upon her sovereignty and threatening her territorial integrity and national independence." The Yugoslavs asked a U. N. investigation.

The Assembly's general debate continued with speeches from some countries allied with the Big Three position on arms limitation. The Russian bloc held its fire until next week. It was known, however, the Russians were studying with interest the official and press reaction around the world to Vishinsky's speech.

U. S. Wants Arms Talks Now

Vishinsky proposed that the arms conference meet as soon as possible, but in any event before June 1, 1952. Jessup told the news conference the United States, Britain and France want the arms talks to begin now in the Assembly. He asked why Vishinsky was by-passing the U. N. with his plan.

New Zealand's Foreign Minister F. W. Dodge welcomed the West's proposals, outlined by President Truman Wednesday night and laid before the Assembly yesterday by Secretary of State Acheson.

Australia's foreign minister Richard G. Casey, said he was "surprised, indeed shocked, to hear sincere proposal for disarmament treated here, by the representative of one of the greatest powers in the world, with levity."

Prof Confesses To Burglaries

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 9 (P)—Dr. Owynne Nettler, state college sociologist, pleaded guilty to burglary today and asked Superior Court for probation as his attorney argued, "a great mind has gone astray."

Trapped by a letter to a woman, the handsome Ph. D. and respected teacher by day admitted he was a pilfering prof at night.

More than 100 of his students at Santa Barbara College crowded the courtroom to hear Dr. Nettler's attorney, W. P. Butcher, plead:

"Because of Dr. Nettler's high intellectual qualities, he has an insight into his problem and the ability to redeem himself."

Judge Ernest Wagner nevertheless ordered Dr. Nettler to submit to a psychiatric examination and set Nov. 26 for a hearing on both the mental report and the probation application.

Dr. Nettler, 38, charged with three counts of burglary, earlier admitted authorship of a signed statement dated last July 8 which Sheriff John Ross said had been turned in to his office by Mrs. Francine Schaefer, a divorcee friend of the professor.

"Francine turned it in because I wouldn't marry her," the nettled doctor told reporters on his way back to the county jail. He was ordered held without bail. Yesterday he was fired by the college.

Middle East Defense
Move Is Due Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—The State Department said today an announcement will be made at noon tomorrow on the establishment of a unified military command in the Middle East.

Officials declined to give any details.

However, indications here are that as previously announced the United States, Britain, France and Turkey are going ahead with the organization of a command despite the refusal of Egypt to participate.

It was understood the organization has not actually been completed yet.

Argentina Vote
Campaign Ends
On Violent NoteTear Gas Breaks Up
Radical Party Rally

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 9 (P)—Argentina's presidential election campaigning came to a climax with a blaze of gunfire and brickbat throwing here today.

There were general predictions that President Juan D. Peron will win a new six-year term in the election Sunday, but the opposition did not give up hope.

The violence occurred at a Radical Party rally in Constitution Plaza during a speech by Presidential Candidate Ricardo Balbin.

Six persons were wounded and ten bruised. Police broke up the demonstration with tear gas.

Eva's Message Broadcast

Peron's ailing blonde wife, Eva, recovering in a hospital from major surgery of undisclosed nature Tuesday, was still a potent factor in the campaign windup.

A message recorded by Mrs. Peron before she entered the hospital was broadcast tonight over a national radio hookup. In it she told the country voters should choose her husband for president to save Argentina from imperialistic agents.

She said that every vote for Peron would fill her weak heart with joy. "Each of you should know," she said, "that when you slip a ballot for Peron in the box I am alongside of you."

No opposition speakers have been allowed time on the nation's radio network.

Two-Man Contest

Mrs. Peron, a dynamic force in the Peronista Party and successful champion of votes for women, had thought of running for vice-president. But she rejected the party nomination with a tearful burst of emotion on the radio last August after being opposed by military and other quarters.

Eight parties are more or less in the running, but the real election contest is between Peron and Balbin, his severest critic. The Radicals say they believe if the election is free from coercion and as honest as Peron has promised, they have an outside chance to win.

British Send Viennese Girl To Prison As Spy

KLagenfurt, Austria, Nov. 9 (P)—Anna Wukowetz, a 23-year-old Viennese girl, was sentenced today to seven years in prison by a British military court for spying against British forces in Austria.

She had confessed to four charges of obtaining British military information from British Corporal John Edwards and passing it on to her lover.

Edwards, who had reported himself to his superiors and had pleaded guilty to similar charges, was reduced to the ranks and sentenced to eight years in prison by a British court-martial Oct. 8.

Bonus Practice OK'd

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—The Salary Stabilization Board said today that employers may follow 1950 practice in giving employees Christmas or year end bonuses this year.

The action applies only to the executive, professional and supervisory type of employees over which the board has jurisdiction.

Housewives Soon
May Fork Out Less
For Beef And Pork

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—The American Meat Institute said today that housewives soon may pay less for beef and pork as a result of a sharp increase in marketings of hogs and cattle.

The institute noted in a statement that pork prices have been declining steadily at wholesale. It said that some grades of beef have gone down several cents below wholesale ceilings in many cities.

Office of Price Stabilization regulations require pork retailers to pass along to consumers any reductions in their wholesale price. Beef orders do not require such a reduction, since they are on a fixed dollars and cents basis. OPS aides said, however, that for competitive reasons retailers would be likely to reflect any downswing in prices.

Tax Probers May Go To President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis.) proposed today that President Truman be asked to open up Justice Department files to House investigators checking on the handling of income tax cases.

The House inquiry has been stymied by the Justice Department, he said, and "I think the only thing we can do is take the case directly to the President."

Rep. King (D-Calif.) heads the group, a subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee. King says it wants to learn why a "very high percentage" of alleged tax fraud cases recommended for prosecution by internal revenue agents have been "dropped at higher levels."

President Truman has authority to open the files the King committee wants to see. The department is said to be drafting a statement of policy in reply to committee charges it has failed to cooperate.

Stassen May Oppose Taft If Ike Doesn't

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (P)—Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, indicated today he may oppose Sen. Taft (O-Ohio) for next year's GOP presidential nomination if Gen. Eisenhower doesn't.

Stassen said in a news conference, however, that his 1952 plans are "completely open for analysis" and he does not expect to make a decision until about the first of the year.

Guided Missiles To Become Passenger Ships--Someday

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 9 (P)—Our guided missiles are going to be ocean-hopping passenger ships, bringing America and Europe within one or two hours flight.

This prediction was in a summary of the probabilities of man's flight into interplanetary space given at the closing session today of the U. S. Air Force symposium and physics and medicine of the upper atmosphere. Dr. Heintz Haber of the School of Aviation Medicine gave the report.

He said the United States program of guided missile research and development is extensive. Some day these missiles will be fitted with wings suitable for gliding and landing. This will be the express ship.

It will rise with rocket power, perhaps to 20 miles altitude. There it will turn its nose toward a distant continent, shut off the power and glide the rest of the way at supersonic speeds. The glide will carry thousands of miles. Dr. Haber named this ship the Ionocruiser.

He said the V-2 type of rocket, that bombarded London and that rises higher than one hundred miles, can eventually carry men with safety.

Stevedores End
Wildcat Walkout;
Board PraisedFact-Finders Will Hear Grievances

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (P)—Rebel stevedores ended a billion dollar tie-up of East coast docks today, steaming back to work to the shrill pipe of shapely whistles.

The wildcat strike—longest and costliest ever on the New York waterfront—began 26 days ago as a revolt against a new contract. It quickly spread to Boston.

More than 20,000 AFL longshoremen and over 130 ships were idle at the peak of the strike, as pickets roved miles of ghostly, deserted piers.

Huge Backlog Piled Up

Railroad men said it probably will be a week before a log-jam of piled up exports across the nation gets moving normally.

A state fact-finding board—with persuasion as its only weapon—was praised by harassed shippers for its part in bringing peace to the largest port in the world.

It got the rebel dockers to go back to the piers with their grievances still unsettled. The board promised to hear them out and to offer its recommendations later.

The fact-finders took over after city, state and federal mediators got nowhere, and after strikers turned down a back-to-work appeal by President Truman.

Three-Man Board Set Up

The city's Commerce and Industry Association wired State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi: "New York State's effective action in bringing truce to 25-day-old ruinous longshoremen's strike after all others failed acclaimed by five thousand foreign traders here."

The board had no powers of its own to end the strike. The best it could do was to take evidence and make recommendations on the hotly-disputed longshoremen's wage contract.

"Stratotanker" Crash
Kills Five Crewmen

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 9 (P)—A KC-97 "Stratotanker" from the 306th Bomb Wing crashed and was destroyed at MacDill Field Air Force Base, Fla., tonight, the field commandant announced.

Five crewmen aboard were killed instantly. There were no survivors. None of the names will be released until the next of kin has been notified.

CIO Reelects
Philip Murray

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (P)—The CIO 13th national convention ended today amid storms of confetti, shouting delegates, a blaring brass band and the reelection of President Philip Murray—11 times president before.

Also reelected without a trace of opposition were Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey, and the nine CIO vice-presidents headed by Allan S. Haywood. Haywood will assume a new post of executive vice-president, making him No. 2 man in the CIO.

Murray said the big job for next year will be a super drive among the 20,000,000 unorganized workers in the U. S.—"the greatest organizing crusade that has ever taken place in the history of organized labor."

Other major tasks for 1952, he said, are the election of political candidates with the same "high aims" as the CIO, and full support for the government in its fight against Communism.

"People have come to know that Communism means starvation, tyranny, dictatorship," he said.

Enemy Stalling
On Other Items
Feared By U. N.Fruitless Talks
Enter Fifth Month

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Nov. 10 (P)—The Allies insisted today that Communist proposals for a Korean buffer zone would cause a sterile bogdown without ever achieving a real armistice.

Nevertheless, the Allied subcommittee began another meeting with the Reds at Panmunjom at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Friday, EST). They had cancelled a Friday afternoon session after a futile morning conference.

As the fruitless talks entered their fifth month, a command spokesman said the United Nations negotiators were "beginning to view with some misgivings the idea of a formalized line" for a cease-fire.

Skeptical Of Fixed Line

In fact, said the spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nickols, the U. N. command is increasingly skeptical of considering any proposal that shows a cease-fire line on a map.

The Allies took the position that a line agreed upon now would become an actual cease-fire line, discouraging future military action across it. This, the U. N. command fears, would free the Communists of the necessity of settling such other armistice questions as exchange of prisoners and rear area inspections.

"The Communists give every indication of desiring only part of an armistice—namely the fixing of a finalized agreement on item 2 (the buffer zone question) which would, in effect, give them a cease-fire with no encouragement, incentive or pressure to settle over items which we deem essential," Nickols told correspondents.

Shift In Allied Attitude

The Reds insisted in a Peiping broadcast Friday that their proposal of Wednesday—to agree immediately on a 2½-mile-wide buffer zone on the battle line—would permit later changes if the battle line shifted while other points were being discussed.

The U. N. command still holds that, actually, the red proposal would freeze the line. The U. N. negotiators want, instead, to postpone the buffer zone question until all other points are settled.

This is a shift in the Allied attitude. On Oct. 25, when the truce talks were resumed, the Allies proposed a definite buffer zone and the Reds rejected it.

Three MIGs Shot Down

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Saturday, Nov. 10 (P)—Two jet battles in which three Russian-made MIGs were shot down and four damaged featured the Korean fighting Friday as cold weather slowed action on the ground.

In the first of the dogfights, the Fifth Air Force reported 19 F-80 Shooting Stars took on 30 MIGs, downing two and damaging three, without losses of their own. The victory was considered remarkable, since the slower Shooting Stars are regarded as a poor match for MIGs, especially when outnumbered.

In the second clash 33 American F-86 sabre jets tangled with 20 MIGs. They were credited with downing one and damaging one, also without loss. It was one of the few times the American jets have outnumbered the Reds.

In weather that was clear but as cold as 17 degrees above Fahrenheit most infantrymen on both sides stayed in their foxholes and tried to keep warm.

Food Prices Decline

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated today that retail food prices declined three tenths of one percent during the two-week period ended Oct. 29.

Scientists Hunt Twin Fireballs

ALBUQUERQUE, Nov. 9 (P)—While goggle-eyed southwesterners compared notes, scientific parties sought today to track down twin fireballs near the Mexican border.

The apparent meteors blazed through the sky shortly before noon yesterday. Ground observers and fliers, some blinded momentarily, viewed the phenomena from points as much as 350 miles apart. One eyewitness report came from nearly 100 miles south of the international boundary in Chihuahua, Mexico.

There were widely conflicting estimates of where the objects crashed to earth.

A ranking authority on meteors said recent frequency of the fireballs—the latest were Nos. 6 and 7 in an 11-day period—is “without parallel in the whole of recorded history.” This observation came from Dr. Lincoln La Paz, who makes a business of digging up meteorites as head of the Institute of Meteoritics at the University of New Mexico here. He said the normal rate is one every three or four months.

British Atom Expert Reported In China

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 9 (P)—A former high official of China's Sinkiang Province said today that Bruno Pontecorvo, a British atomic scientist who disappeared from Western Europe last year, is reported to be working at a Soviet atomic plant in Kuaia, Sinkiang.

Italian-born Pontecorvo, who was employed at Britain's Harwell atomic energy plant, disappeared in October, 1950, while on a continental vacation. His movements with his family were traced from Rome to Stockholm, Sweden, and Helsinki, Finland, where the trail grew cold.

Issa Yusuf Bey Alptekin, former secretary-general of Sinkiang, said Russia is building a “huge atomic stronghold” in Central Asiatic Sinkiang.

Girls To Lead Cheers First Time In 50 Years

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9 (P)—The University of Wisconsin, for the first time, will have girls leading cheers when the Badgers play Pennsylvania at Camp Randall tomorrow.

Athletic Director Guy Sundt said today he had approved a request for use of co-eds, thus breaking a tradition of more than 50 years.

The regular boys' cheer squad also will be on hand.

Strike Action Voted

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (P)—Workers at Westinghouse corporation's two plants here voted today to strike, if necessary, to back up demands for wage boosts under negotiation in Pittsburgh.

They are being represented by an independent union, the United Electrical and Machine Workers of America.

Sen. Duff Says GOP Under Ike Could Win Four Southern States

MIDLAND, Tex., Nov. 9 (P)—Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania said he is sure the Republicans can carry four southern states if Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is the GOP candidate for president in 1952.

Duff reached here today on a Texas tour that has touched off a battle between the Sen. Robert Taft and Eisenhower factions of the Texas GOP.

He said “with Eisenhower as the Republican candidate, I'm absolutely positive the Republicans can carry Texas, North Carolina, Virginia and Florida.”

“I don't think Taft can carry any of these states,” Duff continued, “though I have nothing against the senator from Ohio.”

Two High School Players Offered Bribes In Hawaii

HONOLULU, Nov. 9 (P)—Coach Howard Benham reported today two of his star high school football players were offered bribes—which they promptly rejected—to throw a game Nov. 17.

High school football games here draw large crowds, sometimes up to 25,000. There are few college football games.

Benham said an anonymous telephone caller offered $500 apiece to Quarterback George Paoa and Tackle Gerald Napoleon of Kamehameha High School.

The players told Benham the anonymous caller said he would meet them in a vacant lot and pay the bribes if they would do all they could to see that Kamehameha lost to Roosevelt High School.

Police are trying to trace the calls.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 9 (P)—

Lock up the telephone, mother. Junior can dial San Francisco direct starting tomorrow.

All it takes is 10 twists of a phone dial and a 10 second wait.

It takes a little longer to get the bill.

The New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. let 40 guests try out the new system today.

About 200 calls were placed to the West coast and other cities on the dial network.

The guests dialed cousins in Chicago and mothers-in-law in Milwaukee and chewed the fat for free. It was a private review of a cross-country system that opens officially at 1 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

At that time Mayor M. Leslie Denning of Englewood will pick up a phone, dial 19 digits and pass the time of day with Mayor Frank P. Osborn of Alameda, Calif.

That transcontinental call will touch off a long distance dialing trial by Junior and 9,999 other Englewood phone users.

They can dial directly to more than 11,000,000 telephones from Boston to Burbank.

Why was Englewood given the initial honor and you the headache, mother?

Well, New Jersey Bell says the local central office is equipped with the latest dial switching gadgets.

Mossadegh To Stay In U. S. Six More Days

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—Iran's prime minister, yielding to urgent American pleas, has agreed to stay in Washington for six more days of talks on the bitter Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

But if no understanding with the British has been reached by next Thursday, aides to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh announced, he will leave for Tehran.

The fate of the State's Department's effort to mediate the dispute appeared to hang on a message expected momentarily from the British government in London.

Informed officials said this would disclose Prime Minister Churchill's reaction to a new American plan for settling the seven-month old stalemate.

Mother Charged With Cruelty To Children

DETROIT, Nov. 9 (P)—A thrice-married mother of four was charged today with cruelty to her children, the state claiming that she had set fire to the hands of one and later hanged him from a wall by his thumbs.

Mrs. Ethel Lashbrook, 30, is scheduled to be arraigned tomorrow. The cruelty, police claim, was included in forms of punishment she gave her children.

Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said she admitted holding “court” around the dinner table, with her husband, Clifford, 48, as judge and she as prosecutor.

Crop Production Prospects Drop

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (P)—Crop production prospects declined slightly in October, the government reported today, but the total volume is still expected to be the third largest on record.

Biggest crops were harvested in 1948 and 1949.

And despite the October declines the combined production of crops, livestock and livestock products is expected to top previous records.

Because of increasing demands under the defense program, the government soon will call upon farmers for an even larger volume of farm products next year—particularly of livestock feed grains to meet the needs of a sharply expanding livestock industry.

In its November crop report, the Agriculture Department said that production estimates declined about eight-tenths of one per cent in October under influence of dry weather and freezes in some areas.

Besides an unexpected seven per cent reduction in cotton reported yesterday, the department said November estimates are slightly lower for corn, buckwheat, rice, potatoes, dry beans, peanuts, broom corn, apples and pears. Small increases were indicated for soybeans, sorghum grain, tobacco, sugar beets, sweet potatoes and pecans.

Scant Hope Is Held For Revived Woman

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9 (P)—Scant hope was held today for the recovery of Mrs. Theresa Butler, whose life flickered again after she was pronounced dead.

The 60-year-old widow was receiving treatment at the San Francisco Hospital, where doctors pronounced her condition as “very critical.”

“She is not doing too well,” one doctor told newsmen.

“Her temperature is 103 degrees and there are indications of kidney failure.”

Doctors said they might know by tomorrow whether she would survive. If she does, they thought she might be paralyzed, blind and deaf because the prolonged lack of blood pressure to furnish oxygen to her brain.

Dept. Of Weights Is Short-Weighed

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 9 (P)—The State Department of Weights and Measures weighed a bundle of wiping rags it had ordered from the Pink Supply Co., Minneapolis.

The bundle was eight pounds short of the billed weight. The Pink firm was accused of short weight. Municipal Judge Betty Washburn ruled, however, that it was obvious no one with criminal intent would pick on such a customer.

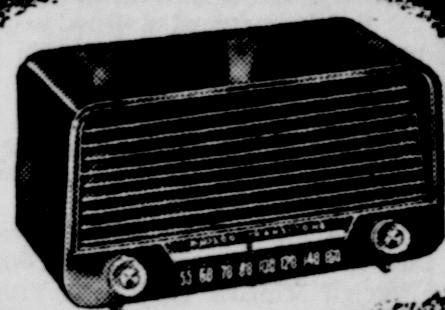

The charge was dismissed.

Court House Records Plan Will Get Study By Judges

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has submitted plans and specifications for record rooms in the basement at the Court House to Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris for their consideration.

Included is a stairwell from the first floor to the basement, a room for a photostatic machine and a record room.

Bids will be asked in the near future and it is hoped to have the new facilities ready early next year.

A committee from the Allegany County Bar Association met with the commissioners a few months ago and asked that a number of rooms in the basement be set aside for the photostatic equipment and other records.

The record rooms on the first floor are overflowing with thousands of documents and for years the basement has been used as a storage place for cancelled checks and other papers of no value.

Court permission is being obtained before some of the documents are destroyed and the photostatic machine will speed up copying of certain papers now done laboriously by typewriter.

The remodeling of the basement rooms will be part of the three-year program of repairs and maintenance begun some months ago by the county commissioners.

Adam To Head Dimes Drive

Winfield H. Adam, general secretary of Central YMCA, has been named director of the March of Dimes drive in Allegany County.

His appointment was made yesterday by former U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, state chairman of the January drive.

Adam succeeds John M. Robb, local attorney, who conducted successful drives for the past four years.

In making his announcement, Radcliffe said: "Polio victims cannot receive adequate treatment and follow-up care unless the March of Dimes provides the funds for this vital aid."

"During the past year, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis sent $6,194,446 as epidemic assistance to chapters which had run short of funds in caring for the 20,507 new victims of this dread affliction."

"Thus, a serious responsibility rests on the shoulders of these men and women who have consented to lead Maryland's citizens in their attack on polio, which starts on January 2."

County Fixes Bond Figures Of Constables

A resolution was passed yesterday morning by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners fixing the bonds of the various constables in the county and also providing for the payment of the bond premiums by the county board.

The resolution, prepared by Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, stated that the bonds of the constables have not been uniform in context or form and have not been acceptable in all instances to the state comptroller's office. The penalties of said bonds have for many years been set arbitrarily at $2,000 without regard for the nature of the services performed by the individual constable.

Prior to the action taken yesterday morning, constables have been required to pay the premiums on all bonds furnished by them, which payment of premiums is deemed to place an unreasonable burden on said officials. It was also determined that due to the fact the constables are public officials, the premium on the bonds may properly be paid by the county commissioners.

The resolution also stated that since the county commissioners are required to approve the sureties on all constables' bonds, the county commissioners would have the incidental right to select such sureties. Bond of all constables except the chief clerk and constable-at-large.

Flashes Over Desert

The atomic weapons tests that have been in progress at Frenchman's Flat, near Las Vegas, Nev., may not have gone according to schedule—bad weather has caused delays—but they have gone according to plan.

Atomic Energy Commission scientists let it be known in advance that atomic charges varying in explosive power would be detonated.

It is being demonstrated that the United States has acquired impressive mastery of this new weapon. The explosions touched off during the current series have shown that the power of the atom can be used tactically as well as strategically. That is enough to know, for the moment, since this development is as revolutionary in its implications as the atomic bomb that fell on Hiroshima.

The first atomic bomb used in warfare seemed to provide a guarantee that a nation supplied with a few hundred weapons of this type, and the means to deliver them, was safe from attack by a nation without them.

Strategic bombing of cities had never won a war, but the atomic bomb meant that strategic bombing would break quick as well as terrible destruction on the nation thus attacked. Consequently the United States increased its investment in atomic energy, hoping to establish a safe lead by the time other nations had learned the "secret."

Alas, Russian spies had already done their work well, and when the first Russian bomb was exploded it became obvious that such a lead might not be enough to deter a possible Russian attack. The time is coming when the Soviet will have a "strategically significant" stock of strategic A-bombs. What is to hold the Reds back from new conquests then?

The answer to that anxious question may be visible in the flashes that have lately been seen over the Nevada desert. Tactical atomic weapons seem to say that in the future it will be useless to mass great concentrations of men and material to achieve a breakthrough against a strong defensive line. If so, the time is coming when Russia's manpower will not be the threat it is today.

Churchill's Example

The cut in salaries which Winston Churchill has ordered for himself and the members of his cabinet will make no dent in the British debt—it's a matter of only $100,000 a year—but it should have no small sentimental effect. To the man on London streets it will be evidence that the sacrifices he is making for the nation's benefits are shared by those in high places.

In Washington, where a horde of assorted bureaucrats such as was never before assembled in history are engaging in a Lucullan tax feast—with custom built limousines, yachts and $50,000 tax-free expense accounts commonplace—this move by Churchill is viewed through jaundiced eyes. What in the world can the man be thinking of?

It was inevitable, of course, that the Prime Minister's action would be interpreted by his enemies as a piece of smart politics. Perhaps it was, but the point to be remembered is that nothing of the sort was done when the Socialist government was in office.

Under the Socialist regime the men on top took all that the law permitted and in many cases it was infinitely more than they ever had before and more than they needed for comfortable living.

It is a good guess that the English people, as distinguished from the Socialist politicians, will think it's a fine idea. Certainly the American people, many of whom are convinced the future holds little except higher and higher taxes, would react favorably if President Truman were to renounce the private yacht, plane, limousine, railroad car, tax-free expense account and accept a voluntary cut in his salary. His exhortations to the populace to tighten its collective belt would have a less hollow sound.

White House Symbol

Renovation of the White House, soon to be reoccupied by President Truman and family, preserves the original Georgian lines of the structure, a truly handsome edifice worthy of the residence of the chief executives of the nation. That this should be true is credited largely to the pertinacity of a single man, Glenn Brown, superintendent for McKim, Mead and White, architects, in the earlier renovation of 1902-1903.

In 1900, which was the centennial of the first occupancy of the White House by President John Adams, President McKinley suggested "perhaps the establishment of a handsome permanent memorial" to mark the event. The White House was burned by the British when they occupied Washington in 1814, and when it was rebuilt it was not entirely in accord with the original plans of James Hoban, who designed it from those of a seat of the Dukes of Leinster, near Dublin.

McKinley's superintendent of public buildings favored two additions, each larger than the White House itself, with circular towers at each end.

Brown, secretary of the American Institute of Architects, fought this as "a mongrel, unrecognizable contraption . . . destroying the individuality of the original building." He won by lining up architects from every state of the Union against the project, and was himself made superintendent of the work. This delighted him because his great-grandfather, Peter Lenox, superintended the original building from 1793 to 1830.

When the present innovations were under way, a marble box 14 inches square and three inches deep was found under a slab of the White House entrance hall, containing a note from Brown about his grandfather. The box will occupy the same place in the rebuilt White House, as a historical symbol. It should be a perpetual reminder that architecturally the White House "dates" exactly as it should.

Fill 'Er Up

The loss of Iran's refineries may be serious for the nations of Western Europe, but it's no cause for personal concern on the part of the people of the United States. That's the conviction of Secretary of the Interior Chapman, who told a Minneapolis audience that research and experiment have freed this country from the specter of an oil shortage "for centuries to come."

This encouraging prospect has its basis in developments in the field of oil shale and in the technological advances which have been made in the production of oil from coal. In both instances new refining processes will provide fuels—including gasoline, diesel oil and jet fuel—which "fully meet specifications."

There need be no fear, therefore, that any of those now alive will lack oil and gasoline for motoring. So it's all right to continue to tell the man at the gas station to "fill 'er up."

How To Keep Well

Irritation From Cosmetics

The Federal food, drug, and cosmetic act of 1938 was enacted by Congress to protect us from harmful products of this type. It assures the buyer that he will not be poisoned or have his complexion ruined by noxious agents. In addition, the law lists the active ingredients of the preparation.

However, although the law protects us, it cannot change human nature. Nothing will deter the seeker of beauty who never looks at the label or those who do not follow directions. More than one manufacturer can attribute his gray hair or high blood pressure to this omission on the part of the buyer. In other words, you can lead a horse to water, but you cannot make him drink and some careless persons always will misuse or overuse drugs and cosmetics. When they suffer the consequences, they blame everyone but themselves.

The more irritating chemical constituents of most cosmetics and drugs have been removed since the passage of the regulatory measures. In some instances, small amounts of certain potentially dangerous chemicals are permitted because they represent the active ingredients. These substances are harmless when used according to directions but can have an ill effect if applied or taken indiscriminately. As a result, the reputation of the manufacturer suffers unjustly.

Sensitivity to a drug is a different matter. There are bound to be some who are allergic to almost anything on the market. This is impossible to prevent but so long as the number remains within reasonable limits there is no need to forbid the sale of adhesive tape, for example, because some persons develop a rash whenever it is applied; and the same can be said of aspirin tablets, nail polish, and face powder.

Most allergic manifestations are manifested by dermatitis. Lesions may appear wherever materials are applied or at a distant site. Occasionally the exact cause remains a mystery until extensive tests are done. Cosmetic dyes, for example, often are blamed for a skin outbreak that follows the application of lacquer but some physicians are of the opinion that the impurities in the dye are the culprits.

There is no end to the number of drug and cosmetic sensitizers that are waiting for the right person to come along. The total in the various scalp lotions and tonics is so great that a detective would be needed to determine the offender. Among these chemicals are picloramine, cantharides, quinine, acetic acid, camphor, capsaicin, betanaphthol, resorcinol, chlorhydrate, rosemary oil, and bergamot oil. Shampoos contain perfumes and sulfonated mixtures that may prove distressing to a susceptible individual. Some of the hair dyes and rinses are hazardous because they contain copper, lead, silver, pyrogallol, iron, and potassium permanganate. Many manufacturers have replaced such chemicals with safer ones so that the customer takes less of a chance than in the past. The permanent waves comes in for a spanking every now and then. The machine type caused occasional burns because of carelessness on the part of the operator. The machineless, or cold wave method, contains chemicals that produce irritation in a few instances.

CARBUNCLES

B. T. writes: Is a carbuncle the same as a boil?

REPLY: Yes, except that one is more extensive than the other. Carbuncles refer to several boils in one area and the infection usually is deeper. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on boils and carbuncles.

BLOOD INGREDIENTS

H. B. writes: What is blood made up of?

REPLY: Blood is chiefly water, even though we hear that blood is thicker than water. The liquid part (plasma), in addition to water, contains many chemicals including proteins, sugar, salt, phosphorus, calcium, cholesterol, and uric acid. The solid constituents are made up of red and white blood cells plus platelets.

NODULES

L. S. writes: What does erythema come from? I had it last year and it cleared up but has returned.

REPLY: This condition is not well understood. The red nodules that develop on the extremities may occur spontaneously or in association with a disease such as tuberculosis or rheumatic fever. In other words the medical profession has not been able to determine whether erythema nodosum is a disease in itself or a toxic manifestation of another malady.

NURSING AND RH FACTOR

Mrs. E. writes: Can a woman whose infant had trouble at birth because of the Rh factor nurse this child?

REPLY: Not advisable, because Rh differences also are found in the breast milk. The antibodies absorbed from the infant's stomach could continue to destroy the blood.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Looked Unhappy During Eisenhower Conference; Ike Complains Of Wilson's Slow Production; Next Spring Considered European Danger Date

WASHINGTON—When the secretaries of Army, Navy, Air and Defense gathered at the White House with all the Pentagon brass for a full-dress discussion with General Eisenhower and the President, the paramount question in everyone's mind was whether Ike and Harry had discussed politics at their lunch.

Neither of them dropped so much as a hint of what they discussed at their private, face-to-face meeting. However, the President frequently gives himself away by his moods. When he is pleased by the shaping of events, he is jovial, relaxed, informal. When he is displeased, Truman is somber, quiet, down-to-business.

At this conference, Truman was definitely down-to-business. Since the European picture is actually looking brighter, it probably wasn't the cause of his somber mood. Instead, Truman gave the impression that he was disturbed over something that had passed between him and Eisenhower. Several of those present couldn't help but wonder whether Ike had disclosed he planned to run on the GOP ticket.

The meeting convened in the Cabinet room, and started with the usual pleasantries. President Truman beamed Eisenhower to the seat Vice President Barkley usually occupies.

"You sit here where Mr. Barkley usually sits," directed the President.

"That is a pretty good job," grinned Ike.

This was taken as a subtle crack at Ike's alleged White House ambitions, and got a laugh from the group.

Except for this brief banter, however, the meeting was right to the point and lasted less than an hour. It was chiefly a general summary of the talks that had been going on in the Pentagon earlier that day.

Eisenhower presented his case in general terms. He outlined his plan for building a minute-man force by the end of 1952, rather than continuing the present, long-range, European mobilization program not scheduled for completion till the end of 1954. In explaining the need for a change Eisenhower dwelt chiefly on his needs in Europe and the lagging military shipments from this country. European military production is far behind schedule, he reported, and our North Atlantic allies are using our retarded shipments as an excuse not to meet their own commitments.

Reasons For Delay

The secretaries and chiefs of staff of the Army, Navy and Air Force replied to Eisenhower, each explaining why his particular service was too short of equipment to spare more for him. The general explanation was that our own military production has bogged down—due to crippling strikes, shortage of machine tools, and too much strategic material going into civilian production.

When Eisenhower pleaded for more air power, Secretary of Air Finletter pointed out the trouble negotiating European bases, explained the bottleneck in jet production at home, and declared flatly that Korea must have first priority. However, Secretary of the Navy Kimball thought he might be able to spare one Marine air wing for Europe.

Eisenhower also complained that an armored division had been promised him, but still hadn't been shipped. Secretary of the Army Pace and Chief of Staff Collins replied bluntly that they don't have certain types of equipment to spare.

Only conflict at the White House meeting occurred between Eisenhower and Chief Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson, and it was minor.

Eisenhower kept emphasizing the vital need of getting equipment to Europe before next spring, and in this connection remarked: "The greatest danger to the free world may come next spring."

Wilson broke in and tried to assure him that production "would be rolling by next spring." However, Eisenhower contended that that wouldn't meet the big problem. He pointed out that forces and equipment are needed before next spring, not by next spring. Two or three times Ike complained that the United States was way behind in its commitments in both equipment and manpower to NATO.

Summary Of Ike's Problems

The White House meeting was a digest of the previous Pentagon talks, a show window for the President. Everyone recited, for the President's benefit, what they had already discussed earlier in the day. While no decisions were made, all problems were thoroughly aired. Here are some that came up:

1. The most important, Eisenhower's speed-up plan calls not only for more equipment, but also more manpower from this country. This, however, would be a stopgap plan to hold the fort until Europe could mobilize fully.

2. Whereas we have been talking in terms of 60 divisions in Europe by the end of 1954, Eisenhower talked in terms of 20 divisions by the end of 1952. He plans to have 16 divisions by the end of January and he indicated that he could organize and train 30 divisions by the end of '52—if he could get the equipment.

3. Eisenhower's biggest problem has been getting Europe's own military production rolling. Reason is that the North Atlantic countries prefer to manufacture civilian goods and bolster their civilian economies. There is a growing attitude in Europe that we are not doing Europe any favor by sending military aid, but are only preparing our own defenses by making Europe the front line.

4. Hints also came to the surface of a controversy between Eisenhower the military commander, and Harriman, the new civilian administrator, over who should allocate the military aid. Neither one relishes taking the responsibility for saying which country gets how much.

Consensus of the Joint Chiefs of

The situation as respects the Republican Presidential nomination remains practically the same as before the visit of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to America led to a deluge of speculation about it. The Republican leaders who want the party to nominate Gen. Eisenhower and who have been earnestly active to that end, will as a matter of course continue their activity and go on with their plans. They are not stopped by anything Gen. Eisenhower said. The visit of itself, however, makes necessary a modification of their plans, as respects timing.

Before Gen. Eisenhower's visit, a view held by advocates of nominating him was that he should express willingness to run or at least make it definitely clear that he would not refuse to run and that this should be done fairly early. Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, whose earnestness and activity gives him a kind of leadership of the pro-Eisenhower movement, stated publicly during October that he felt "absolutely certain" Gen. Eisenhower would be a candidate. When asked how soon he thought Gen. Eisenhower should make his willingness clear, he replied, "shortly after the first of the year we ought to know definitely and unqualifiedly. I think the public ought to know."

Explained Purpose

This timing is upset by the fact of Gen. Eisenhower's visit. The purpose of the visit was stated by the General himself with an ease and explicitness, in contrast with answers to which he was pressed by the clatter of questions by reporters which assumed that his visit had political significance. Gen. Eisenhower said: "I came over to Washington this time, my second trip home since assigned to NATO North Atlantic Treaty Organization, to discuss progress realized during the past year in the development of the security of Western Europe and to take up with the authorities some of the problems that have been encountered."

NATO is a subject of itself, and a deeply important one. Its function is to build up a unified military organization of countries of Western Europe, together with the United States and Canada, for defense against possible aggression by Russian Communism. Gen. Eisenhower was made head of it about a year ago. The purpose of his recent visit to Washington was to report what has taken place in NATO and concerning it during the intervening year.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Dump The Tax Collectors

One of the great economic misfortunes of Europe has been the multiplying of customs barriers which prevent goods from moving from where they are made to where they are needed. They used to have such stations in China to collect the likin, a tax which has played a great part in China's ruin.

Now, we are getting such barriers in many parts of the United States. Often they are disguised as protections against germs or something, but wherever they exist, their purpose is to keep goods of one state from moving into another. They are Interstate Tariff Barriers.

The great economic strength of the United States heretofore was a result of free communications, of the free movement of American goods from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Maine to Texas.

Recently, in Massachusetts, a citizen, Raymond S. Redfield, once president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, was actually charged with the crime of purchasing eight cartons of cigarettes, two gallons of wine and a quart of gin in Thompsonville, which is just over the Massachusetts line in Connecticut. Also, his car was seized. The court threw the case out, but it can happen again.

According to Redfield, he was in a town called Longmeadow on business and when he was on his way home, he went to Thompsonville and made the purchases. The State of Massachusetts had spies on hand who demanded to see the Connecticut purchases.

Springfield in Massachusetts is the general marketing city for residents of that area, which includes towns in Connecticut, and it is now possible that that state will enter upon a war of Staff seems to favor Eisenhower's plan for a speedup, though no formal decisions were made. This means we would be stripping our home defense in order to give Europe the second priority on both manpower and equipment. Korea would continue to get first priority. In other words, it looks as if Eisenhower won this case.

Eisenhower Merry-Go-Round

The nation's top newsmen, who covered General Eisenhower's visit, were red-faced over his unexpected stop-over in New York City before taking off for Europe. They had already written that he was winging his way across the Atlantic when he suddenly showed up at New York's La Guardia Field. Actually, Eisenhower had planned all along to stop at La Guardia Field, so his wife could pick up some personal belongings from their New York home. . . . Eisenhower's escort offered to slip him in and out the back way of Washington offices in order to avoid photographers. However, he replied that he didn't want to "disappoint the boys" and shouldered his way through the press mob. At the White House, all other dignitaries slipped out a side entrance—except Eisenhower.

The time is fast coming when an American citizen will wonder whether he is a free man in a free country or is a hounded creature run by a flock of tax-grabbing politicians who find a law to use against their superiors. We once had a tea party in Boston over taxes. We might, with good reason, have a few of them in many parts of the country, dumping the tax-collectors instead of the tea.

What has taken place does not conform 100 per cent to the word "progress," as Gen. Eisenhower himself said it has not been wholly "a rosy picture of encouraging development." The important point with respect to Gen. Eisenhower as a Presidential possibility is that success of NATO, or even certainly that it may not be disappointing in important respects, cannot possibly be achieved by "shortly after the first of the year." This is the time Sen. Duff spoke of as the deadline by which Gen. Eisenhower must have expressed himself about the Presidential nomination. So long as vitally important problems need to be solved about NATO, Gen. Eisenhower, as the head of it, cannot readily resign. Neither can he readily continue as NATO head and simultaneously be a candidate for the Presidential nomination.

Degree Of Handicap

Silence by Gen. Eisenhower, whether forced upon him by his position or as a voluntary and permanent attitude, carries some degree of handicap to the Republican leaders who promote nomination of him. The handicap is not necessarily conclusive. Some of the more confident and zealous pro-Eisenhower advocates have taken into consideration all along the possibility that Gen. Eisenhower might not speak until nomination is definitely tendered him by the Republican National Convention. They have had faith, whether justified or not, that there is enough "grass roots" Eisenhower sentiment among Republican voters to bring it about that a majority of the delegates to the National Convention would be for nominating Gen. Eisenhower. That would be the "draft" occasionally spoken of by some of the advocates of nominating Gen. Eisenhower.

Meanwhile there is Sen. Taft. He is a formal and outspoken candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, carrying on a campaign of giving his views on public questions at many public meetings throughout the country, a campaign of the sort that brought him the sensational victory he had in the Ohio Senatorial election of last November. As of today the contest is thought of as two-sided between Sen. Taft and Gen. Eisenhower. Such other possibilities as are discussed are thought of as getting their opportunity if and after there has been in the convention a deadlock between the leading two.

reprisal all along the border, seizing goods purchased in Massachusetts. It is said that Massachusetts is doing this sort of thing on its borders, which affects Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, New York and Vermont. It could turn New England into a Balkanized region.

New Hampshire caught Massachusetts agents who were spying on Massachusetts citizens and ordered them out of the state.

This is not a question of states rights; it is a question as to whether we live in the United States of America. Suppose a citizen is on a trip from, let us say, New York to Yellowstone, to see America first. Let us say that he stocks up with food, drink, cigarettes and camping equipment. Will he have to pay a customs duty every time he crosses a state line? Or suppose he buys Indian blankets and toy totem poles in Yellowstone. Will he have to pay customs duties every time he crosses a state line? Maybe the AAA will issue an interstate tariff schedule to help its touring members.

Our lives are becoming increasingly and unpleasantly complicated as various agencies of the federal, state and municipal governments require more money. Americans are becoming involved in bookkeeping processes which are a nuisance and, so far as housewives are concerned, become burdensome because they are neither trained nor equipped to handle these chores. Small businesses are unable to carry the personnel necessary to do all the paper work involved in filling out forms and covering the myriads of taxes. They add to their expenses by hiring accountants and lawyers to do it for them.

When states erect barriers against their own citizens and other Americans, they are pursuing a harmful course, one, curiously, which was among the principal causes of the French revolution. The octroi was such an internal revenue tax which broke the backs of the French people.

An American ought to be free to buy and sell anywhere in the United States. It is true that the automobile makes it possible for a citizen in one state to make purchases in another, and there is nothing wrong about that. The great shops in New York would die of starvation if citizens of New Jersey and Connecticut, to say nothing of Pennsylvania and even Massachusetts, were forbidden to purchase here. I do not know the Chicago market as well, but I should imagine that the shops there get a goodly business from Indiana and Wisconsin.

The time is fast coming when an American citizen will wonder whether he is a free man in a free country or is a hounded creature run by a flock of tax-grabbing politicians who find a law to use against their superiors. We once had a tea party in Boston over taxes. We might, with good reason, have a few of them in many parts of the country, dumping the tax-collectors instead of the tea.

Keyser-McCoolle Bridge To Be Memorial To Dead Of All Wars

Interstate Span To Be Opened Sunday

KEYSER, W. Va. — The bridge, crossing the Potomac River and joining Keyser and McCoolle, Md., will be dedicated Sunday at 2 p. m. in the middle of the span.

The bridge, including the small portion over the Western Maryland Railway tracks on the Maryland shore and the old Route 220 to the land abutment in McCoolle, and the longer stretch of the bridge extending from the river pier on the West Virginia side to the abutment at Center Street in Keyser, covers a distance of 2,271 feet.

The bridge rises from Center Street until it reaches its full height over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks and from there sweeps majestically through to the Maryland shore.

The cost of the construction work to West Virginia, including half of the span over the water, was $1,250,000. Maryland's cost was considerably less as it covered only from the middle of the river span to the land abutment. However Maryland is building a long land approach from McCoolle, which will add much more to its cost.

Must Build Road

West Virginia will have additional costs as the State Road Commission must build a new highway from the bridge through Keyser, southward on Mineral Street, swinging east at or near Lincoln Street, and joining the present Route 220 up New Creek several miles. The highway work will not be begun until next year.

It was necessary before starting construction on the bridge, for the W. Va. Road Commission to purchase property along South Mineral Street, Keyser, which was later partially cut away and new fronts installed, making way for construction of the bridge. In addition the SRC had to excavate through a block of North Mineral Street, remove and reconstruct sewers, and in this operation, the work continued for a period of almost a year before the first work could be started on the bridge underwork, including an abutment at the south opening to the bridge, and erection of piers.

This preliminary work was started May 23, 1949, and has continued until last week, when the painting was completed.

The structure was in course of construction for 30 months, with a short period last winter when no work was done.

To Dedicate Bridge

Rep. Harley O. Staggers of West Virginia, will deliver the speech in the dedication ceremonies which will give to the interstate bridge the name of "Memorial Bridge," a part of U. S. Highway 220.

The bridge will be dedicated to the dead of all U. S. wars.

The ceremony is being sponsored by war veterans of McCoolle and Keyser.

Boyce-Houser Post No. 41, American Legion Band, Keyser, will play the Maryland and West Virginia State songs in addition to other musical numbers. Russell Reynolds will be master of ceremonies.

The ribbon cutting the bridge to traffic will be by Rep. Staggers, and a firing squad of Harry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Cumberland, will fire the salute as Clarence Clark will sound taps.

The invocation will be by Rev. Robert L. Bridges, pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, Keyser, and Rev. Kenneth Rizer, pastor of the Church of the Assumption, Keyser will give the benediction.

Joseph Gurney Cannon of Illinois, better known as "Uncle Joe," served in the United States House of Representatives longer than any other person has served in either or both branches of Congress—46 years from 1873 to 1923.

Siren Will Mark Bridge Opening

KEYSER, W. Va. — The siren in the Keyser Fire Hall will salute the opening of the dedication program for the new Potomac River bridge at 2 p. m. Sunday.

The siren call will be without the call blasts so that the firemen will know it is not for a fire.

Big Generating Plant Capacity To Be Doubled

Third Unit To Be Added At Albright

Plans to virtually double the designed capacity of the new power plant at Albright, W. Va., near Kingwood, have been announced although the first generating unit is still eight months away from operation.

A. C. Spurr, president of the Monongahela Power Company at Fairmont, W. Va., disclosed that a third unit costing $17,000,000 will be installed and is scheduled to go into service in 1954.

The third unit is expected to have an effective generating capacity of 135,000 kilowatts. With the two 75,000 kw units under construction, capacity of the plant would be increased to 285,000 kw.

The first two units are being constructed by Monongahela and the Potomac Edison Company at a cost estimated at $23,000,000 and will be operated jointly by the two companies. The Monongahela unit will be completed next June and the Potomac Edison phase a few months later.

The expanded capacity at Albright will make it the largest unit in the Monongahela System's generating line. With the addition of a new unit, No. 6, of 80,000-kw capacity at Rivesville, W. Va., that station was raised to 200,000-kw. Willow Island, near Parkersburg, W. Va., has an effective capacity of about 55,000-kw.

The third unit will be added to the downstream end of the Albright station, extending it by 115 feet. Excavation for the foundation of the extension was made at the time of excavating for the original two units, and work on the base and foundation walls for the third unit is now underway.

Monongahela Power supplies more than 190,000 users of electric light and power in an area in excess of 12,000 square miles of territory in Northern West Virginia and parts of Ohio, Maryland and Virginia.

It is a part of the West Penn Electric system which also includes West Penn Power company, operating in Pennsylvania, and the Potomac Edison company, operating in Maryland and three adjoining states.

Additional high voltage transmission lines will be constructed to carry the power output from the third unit to sub-stations connecting with the lines of West Penn Power and Potomac Edison north and east of Albright.

Spurr, in announcing the third unit, which will raise the total cost of the project to $40,000,000, said that a steadily expanding demand for electric power in the tri-state area makes it apparent that the capacity of the two units now under construction will be used as soon as they are "on the line."

"This further expansion," he said, "is in line with the electric industry's long-established policy of keeping its power supply ahead of demands."

Spurr also disclosed that West Penn Power announced plans to install a similar 135,000 kilowatt generating unit in its Springdale station in Pennsylvania, with construction scheduled for completion in October, 1953.

By 1954, the capability of the West Penn Electric system, after all the projected additions are completed, will total about 1,700,000 kilowatts. Spurr said. By contrast, the system's generating capacity ten years earlier, in 1944, amounted to only 770,000 kilowatts.

Announcement of the third unit at Albright was made almost a year to the day from the time that Monongahela and Potomac Edison disclosed plans to erect the Preston county plant. Construction has been under way for several months.

Homecoming Set By Members Of Area Church

All-Day Program Planned Tomorrow

KEYSER, W. Va. — Although the old church is now gone, the congregation of the Reese Chapel Methodist Church at New Creek, five miles south of here on U. S. Route 220, will conduct a special homecoming celebration of the 75th anniversary of the church Sunday.

Dr. Ross Linger, district superintendent, will conduct the worship service at 11 a. m., but the anniversary will be an all-day observation, beginning with Sunday School at 10 a. m., and continuing with a basket dinner in the basement of the new structure at noon. At 2 p. m. there will be an old time hymn sing and special music and at 7:30 p. m., the worship service will be conducted with Rev. Vernon Cale, pastor, preaching the sermon.

The old frame building which served as the first church was sold to a group of sportsmen of the Westernport area, to be used as a club house for the hunters of the field and stream. In attempting to remove the building from its foundation it collapsed, the timbers having reached the point where they could not be held together when being moved. The remains of the building have been removed since then, and the new edifice stands unobstructed along Highway 220, and at services have been held there for several weeks.

The new building is complete except for new pews and a few minor installations that are planned. It is the hope of the congregation to be able to purchase the pews and other articles soon.

Homemakers Throughout Co. Honoring Maude A. Bean

Reception To Be Tues.

The Allegany County Council of Homemakers Clubs is entertaining with a reception in honor of Miss Maude A. Bean Tuesday. It will be held at the Centre Street Methodist Church recreation hall, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Verna M. Kellar, University of Maryland, will also be here to honor Miss Bean.

A native of Nebraska, Miss Bean has served as county home demonstration agent here for 26 and one half years. Helping to organize the various Homemakers and 4-H clubs she now has 36 Homemakers clubs in the county with over 1,600 members as compared to four clubs with 47 members, when she arrived here. The Allegany County Homemakers Chorus, Rural Women's Short Course Club, Junior Extension 4-H and Trail have also been organized in the county.

Miss Bean also assisted in establishing the Scholarship Loan fund in 1934; organized tours to historical churches and homes in the county; and art exhibit in the library in 1938; and although Allegany county is most distant from the University of Maryland, always had the most representatives to the RWSC.

The "Distinguished Honor" of the National Home Demonstration Association Council was awarded to Miss Bean last November, at the annual meeting in Chicago. She received recognition for surpassing all other counties in the state in compressing home demonstration work on women and girls and her cooperation "in mobilizing community expression and organization."

An entertainment will feature the evening, with women from the various clubs in the county participating. It will include music, readings and skits.

Mrs. Charles Long and Mrs. Joseph Wheeler of the LaVale Club are to sing; Mrs. Harry Barton and a group of the Potomac Valley Progressive Young Women's Club, will present a group of numbers; Mrs. Louis Haus, Mt. Savage, will play selections on her colovox; an original poem, "Tribute in Honor" written ten by Mrs. George Ord of the West-ernport Club, will be read by Mrs. Frank M. Dayton.

Mrs. Harry Bender, member of the Flintstone club, the oldest club in the county, will give a monologue; and a skit, "The Family Album, portraying women of the clubs, will be given by the North Cumberland Homemakers.

A candle lighting service, written by Miss Clair Lucille Malin, will conclude the evening with the president of each club taking part. Mrs. Redford Aldridge, Frostburg, is to be the reader.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9 (INS)—June Allyson plays a traveling saleswoman in "One For The Road"—no gags about the traveling saleslady and the farmer's son, please! To be explicit, June plays the first woman ever to pack a bag and hit the road to sell merchandise, one Nora Braun, who, back in 1906 was a one-woman scandal selling razors around the country. Joe Pasternak, who will produce, tells me this is a musical drama with several songs spotted in for June. Although Joe gave the blonde Allyson her first starring role at MGM in "Two Girls And A Sailor" they've made only one movie together since "Her Highness And The Bellboy."

varia because French servants can't pronounce Ludwig Bemelmans.

Selene Walters saved her three-year-old daughter, Scarlett, from near tragedy early Thursday morning when an electric vaporizer next to the child's bed caught fire and ignited the bedspread.

The little girl was being treated for a head cold and Selene had left the room only for a moment to return to a horrifying sight: flaming grease all over the covers. In pulling the flaming bedclothing off the child, Selene was severely burned on her right arm. This she doesn't mind a bit she is so grateful that little Scarlett is unharmed.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Clark Gable isn't in Hollywood, hasn't been in Hollywood recently, and has no intention of returning anytime soon no matter what you read elsewhere.

If anything can cheer up Errol Flynn these days it's the original story idea sent him by James Michener, author of "South Pacific" and "Return To Paradise." Michener, sent along a flattering note that he wrote the yarn with Errol in mind.

But, poor Flynn can hardly be interested in anything these days he is so deeply grieved over the drowning of his good friends, Freddie McEvoy and his wife.

Every moment he isn't before the cameras at Warners he is on the transatlantic phone to France and Switzerland making sure that the orphaned daughter of the McEvoy is safe. As I told you, Errol wants to adopt her and bring her here.

I have just heard from Paris that Columbia has bought Ludwig Bemelmans' "Madeline," a children's book which is a best seller and which will be made as a cartoon short for kiddies.

Speaking of Bemelmans, he's the latest craze and darling of hostesses, who love him despite the fact that before accepting a dinner invitation he invariably asks what will be on the menu. He also insists on trimming the guest list.

Recently, when Sir Charles Mendel invited him for dinner Bemelmans said, "Please don't have any European decayed aristocrats." He changed his name to the Prince of Ba-

THE WAY OUT

OF THE DARK

There is a way out of the deep darkness that engulfs the world; it is the way of the Bible, the way of light.

The sweet Singer of Israel found this way and exclaimed, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." The prophet Isaiah knew of it when he told the Israelites, "The Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory."

The Bible has been God's Pillar of Fire to lead men and nations out of darkness into light. The chaotic blackness of the Augustan Age was shattered by the Light which came out of Israel in fulfillment of the Scriptures. In this light new faith and hope were born.

The darkness of the Middle Ages disappeared in the brightness of the Renaissance and the Reformation when the leaders of men searched the Scriptures and found the Light of God. Every great revival of spiritual religion has cleared the mists from human eyes and lighted man's way to peace.

The darkness that envelops the world today will roll away on the wings of the morning when men and nations turn back to the Bible and back to God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his sake of his community and nation. (2) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON
Bobby Christ scored three touchdowns—one on a 94-yard pass play—to pace the LaSalle Explorers to their second victory of the season over an undermanned Ridgeley High eleven last night at Fort Hill stadium. The score was 31-7.

The win snapped a five-game losing streak for Coach Norman Geatz's charges and gave the new Explorer mentor his first triumph since taking over the helm in mid-season. The loss was the seventh straight for Ridgeley which played its final game of the year.

Blackhawks Score
The Blackhawks did manage to punch over a touchdown in the third quarter against LaSalle, marking only the second in the West Virginians' game in their losing skid.

LaSalle scored with startling suddenness on the last play of the initial period after the two teams had battled evenly throughout the 12-minute stanza.

Lowell Loy pointed to the Explorer seven and Bobby Arnone returned to the 21, but LaSalle was penalized to the 5 for clipping. After Arnone picked up a yard, Marty Mullaney, Explorer quarterback, dropped back into his end zone, shot a pass to the right field where Christ gathered it in on the 15 and the speedy half-back raced down the sidelines all the way for the six-point drive.

Completely dominating play in the second quarter LaSalle racked up three more quick touchdowns. The first came when Loy, attempting to run from fake kick formation on his own 9, was faked in the end zone and tackled where he fumbled with Paul Ackerman, Explorer end, dropping on the pignisk for the counter. Mullaney passed to John Sloan for the extra point.

Score After Fumble
Moments later after an intercepted pass gave LaSalle the ball on the Ridgeley 40 the Explorers counted on a 16-yard toss from Mullaney to Bobby Arnone. The next score came after LaSalle recovered Loy's fumble on the Ridgeley 9 and Christ cracked over from the eight.

Ridgeley counted in the third stanza after Christ fumbled on the LaSalle three and Tommy Riegleman recovered for the Hawks. Robert Bradley picked up a yard at guard then Burke Baker tossed an aerial to Riegleman on the two and the diminutive halfback stepped over for the td. Baker's pass to Howard Maier for the point was good.

LaSalle's final counter was a 21-yard heave from Mullaney to Christ.

Notes On The Game
Wayne Magruder, 16, Ridgeley guard, suffered a possible broken thumb in the second period. X-rays will be taken tomorrow at Memorial Hospital where he was treated. Only about 400 fans braved last night's chilly weather to witness the game.

The win was LaSalle's seventh in 11 games with the Hawks. The absence of halftime ceremonies seemed to leave the fans restless. Ridgeley actually scored a second time in the fourth period but a penalty cancelled the touchdown and LaSalle held.

The Hawks, after getting nowhere with the "T" in the first half resorted to the single-wing with passes in the final two periods to make a better ball game. Several times LaSalle shifted into the now-famous SMU spread formation and passed with excellent results, picking up 168 yards through the air. That 25-0 halftime lead is the biggest enjoyed by LaSalle in many years.

Ridgeley had only nine plays on the bench and Coach Ralph Poling made only three substitutions during the fray. Ridgeley failed to make a first down in the first half. Lineups:

COMING HERE—Salvatore (Sal) Maglie, above, pitching ace of the New York Giants, National League champions of 1951, will hold open house at the Moose Home on Saturday, November 17 from 10 a.m. until noon.

Lonnie Jackson, governor of the Moose Lodge, manager of the Rotary Club, Hot Stove League team and chairman of the Hot Stove League membership drive for the coming year, has made arrangements for the pitching ace to appear here to spark the membership drive.

Will Autograph Cards
Maglie has agreed to visit informally with anyone who wishes to meet him. Membership cards for the Hot Stove League for 1951-1952 will be autographed by him if presented to him on this occasion.

All officers, managers, players and members of the league and the public in general are invited to come to the Moose Home during those hours to meet Maglie.

Jackson contacted Jack Stoehr, regional director of the Local Order of Moose in Pittsburgh to make arrangements for a major league player to come to Cumberland to assist in the Hot Stove League membership drive. Stoehr phoned Maglie, who is a member of Niagara Lodge of the L.O.O.M. in Niagara Falls, N. Y., and he readily consented to come to Cumberland.

Won 23 Games For Champs
Maglie was a 23-game winner for Manager Leo Durocher's National League champions this year. In 1950, Sal, who is known as "The Barber," won 18 and lost 4.

"He has everything, including control and self-possession which permits him to stick it in their ears if that is indicated," according to the September issue of "Sports" magazine.

Sal's performance during the late season stretch of the Giants and his world series appearances are known to all. His record of 45 consecutive scoreless innings established in 1950 is exceeded only by Carl Hubbell with 46½.

The immortal Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove of Lonaconing has been invited to be co-host with Maglie.

Homecoming Set For Morgantown
MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 9 (AP)—A homecoming crowd of 20,000 is expected for tomorrow's Southern Conference football game pitting West Virginia against South Carolina.

The visiting Gamecocks are a one-touchdown favorite, with their versatile attack built around Steve Wadiak. South Carolina has a 3-3 mark, all within the Southern Conference.

The West Virginia eleven will carry a 5-2 record into the 1:30 p.m. (EST) kickoff. The Mountaineers have a 2-1 conference record.

It will be West Virginia's final home game. The Mountaineers still must face Pitt and Maryland in road contests.

The game will be fourth meeting between the two teams and although the Gamecocks were favored in two of the previous meetings they still are looking for their first triumph.

The first contest in 1939 ended in a 6-6 tie. West Virginia won 13-0 in 1942 and 35-12 in 1948.

Crucial Games Facing College Gridiron Greats

Stanford-So. Cal. West Coast Feature

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—"Hump" games bob up tomorrow for four of the nation's top-ranking football powers and, when the skirmishing is over, Michigan State, Southern California, Stanford and Texas should have a pretty good idea where they're going.

For Southern California and Stanford, who tangle in a battle of Pacific Coast giants in Los Angeles coliseum, they hope it's the Rose Bowl, oldest and one of the richest of the post-season features.

There's no bowl in Michigan State's immediate future but the newest member of the Big Ten family can hammer up a strong bid for national honors by taking the measure of Notre Dame's Fighting Irish at East Lansing, Mich.

So. Cal Favored
Texas' ideas lean toward the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. To get there the massive Longhorns must do a terrific rushing job on Baylor's strike-throwing Larry Isbell in their headline encounter at Austin, Tex.

Southern Cal, which dropped an informal game to Camp Pendleton, is a one touchdown favorite.

The odds-makers also have made Michigan State a six-point choice over Notre Dame although word from the middle west is that the Irish's Frank Leahy has geared his charges for a super effort in this one.

Most of the other topflight teams, including the first place Tennessee Volunteers, should have a mild afternoon of it.

Tennessee is host to Washington & Lee at Knoxville while Illinois, No. 2 nationally and the leading contender for the guest spot in the Robe Bowl, takes on three-beaten and once-tied Iowa.

Third-ranked Maryland, unbeaten and probably headed for the Sugar Bowl if the conference can be made to agree, takes on winless Navy at Baltimore. Princeton, whose 19-game winning streak is the longest still alive in major football, invades Harvard where No. 20—a Princeton record—should be waiting in a neatly-wrapped package. The Tigers are the No. 4 team.

Georgia Tech, still considered good bowl material, despite its 14-14 tie with Duke, subjects its No. 8 ranking to only a slight risk against Virginia Military Institute at Atlanta. Wisconsin, No. 9, entertains Pennsylvania in one of the sectional features of the day. The Badgers, beaten by Illinois and tied by Ohio State, are a 14-point favorite.

Other Games Listed
Other games include: EAST—Bucknell at Colgate, Detroit at Villanova, Dartmouth at Columbia, Marquette at Holy Cross, Michigan at Cornell, NYU at Temple, Ohio State at Pittsburgh, Syracuse at Penn State, Rutgers at Brown, The Citadel at Army, South Carolina at West Virginia.

MIDWEST—Bradley at Toledo, Drake at Wichita, Indiana at Minnesota, Kansas State at Tulsa, Loyola (Los Angeles) at Kansas, Nebraska at Iowa State, Oklahoma at Missouri, Purdue at North-western.

SOUTH—Boston College at Clemson, Davidson at North Carolina State, Georgia at Florida, Houston at Louisville, Kentucky at Tulane, Mississippi Southern at Alabama, Mississippi at Auburn, North Carolina at Virginia, Richmond at Stetson, Vanderbilt at Louisiana State, VPI at William & Mary, Wake Forest at Duke.

SOUTHWEST—Rice at Arkansas, Southern Methodist at Texas A&M, Wyoming at New Mexico.

FAR WEST—Arizona at Temple State, Denver at College of the Pacific, Montana at Colorado A&M, UCLA at Oregon State, Utah State at Brigham Young, Utah at Colorado, Washington at California, Washington State at Idaho.

Carver Loses, 19-13
Carver High School's six-man football team suffered its second straight defeat yesterday, losing a return game to Ramer Memorial High School at Martinsburg, W. Va. The score was 19-13.

These teams played a tie here earlier in the season.

Silents To Play Romney Pioneers On Thanksgiving
A post-season football game between the West Virginia School for the Deaf (5-1-0) and the Romney High School Pioneers will be staged on the Romney High School Field at 2 p.m. Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22. Coach Richard "Dick" McElwee announced last night.

Romney football fans have been "itching" to see these schools matched and a hard-fought and interesting game is anticipated.

The Silents, coached by Glenn Hawkins, are undefeated in the Potomac Valley Conference, having beaten Franklin, 47-6 and Keyser 20-0. Romney High has a 3-1-1 record in the conference.

Elkins High School's football team, victorious in eight out of nine games played to date, comes here tonight to battle Allegany High School in the fourth game of their gridiron series.

The opening kickoff is scheduled for eight o'clock. Officials will be "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Cumberland; John Shelton, Keyser; Don Elcher and Steve Harrick, Morgantown.

Coaching 27th Season
Coach Frank C. Wimer, who has been coaching Elkins High School teams since 1920, is rounding out his 27th season as grid mentor at the Randolph county school.

Wimer spent five years in the armed services as a major in the infantry during the Second World War from 1941 through 1945. In 1928 his Tigers were undefeated and untied in 10 games. The previous year they won ten and lost one.

Elkins and Allegany first met on the gridiron in 1921 and the Tigers roped off with a 48-0 victory. The schools renewed relations in 1949 after a 27-year lapse and the Campers won here, 28-13.

Last Armistice Day, Elkins beat AHS in Elkins by the score of 12-6 when Dorsey Sherman ran 86 yards with an intercepted pass and Dave Warner galloped 40 yards with an Allegany fumble for the winning td.

Sherman Is Tigers' Ace
Sherman is the most feared player in the Elkins' lineup. He scored three tds against Parsons last week, turned in several sensational runs, and earlier in the season scored 27 points in a single contest.

Elkins' lone loss came at the hands of Washington Irving High of Clarksburg and cracked the Tigers' seven game victory streak.

Allegany has won four games, lost three and played one tie. Tonight's game at the local stadium is the Campers' last before the city championship duel with Fort Hill on Thanksgiving. This means that AHS will be without a game for 11 days prior to the title tilt.

"Jim is going to be perfectly all right," the spokesman added.

It will mark the second meeting of the Jackets and Beall on the gridiron. The Hardy countians won last year's game by the score of 18-7. Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Froburg eleven will be engaging in its eighth game on a nine-game schedule. The Mountain City eleven has won three and lost four. ## NCAA Lifts TV Ban In Washington

Blackout Remains For Other Centers

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association, bowing to heavy pressure, decided to let the Michigan State-Notre Dame football game be telecast in the Washington, D. C., area.

Earlier this week a similar decision was made in favor of Detroit, which like Washington originally was to be denied a view of this mid-western headline.

In making the announcement, Ralph Furey, Columbia University athletic director and chairman of the NCAA television committee, insisted the move would not affect the board research structure.

"We made an exception in the case of Washington because it was purely a local problem," Furey said. "We merely postponed the blackout a week for that area."

"There is no game in the Washington area this week whereas next week there will be a very good game between Maryland and North Carolina State. We will have our blackout there Nov. 17."

Washington was one of 12 major centers scheduled for a complete blackout this week.

The others, in which there has been no change, are Chicago, Cleveland; Birmingham, Ala.; Ames, Iowa; Charlotte, N. C.; Dayton, Ohio; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Johnston, Pa.; Kalamazoo, Mich., and Toledo.

Elsewhere, eastern cities—excepting those on the blackout list—will be able to see the Notre Dame-Michigan State game at East Lansing, Mich., while the west will get a look at the Maryland-Navy game at Baltimore.

Complaints Of An Unemployed Comedian

Sam Levenson, one of the few genuine humorists to come along in quite a spell, was complaining the other day about getting $150,000 a year from C. B. S. for doing nothing. Well almost nothing. He's on the panel of "This Is Show Business," but he doesn't count this as honest toil. "I'm being kept under contract," he says, "the negative type contract, so I won't go to NBC." His old show at 7 p. m. Saturdays was so warm, human, appealing and fresh — especially that it appalled the old guard at C. B. S. They'd like him to emcee a variety show, something, he explains wistfully, with the big ballet numbers. He flatly refused to get mixed up with this sort of operation. "So they put on 'Take It Or Lump It' or 'Beat the Clock' or 'Bang Your Head'."

It was suggested that earning all that money for doing nothing was nice work if you could get it, but Levenson shook his head, gloomily. "So people start whispering. What's with Levenson? He's lost his touch? He's a Communist? They fired him?" Levenson can't stop working, even though expensively unemployed. "I get going on a nice little story—then I stop and say 'Why am I doing all this work, I haven't got a show. I'm like the man in the barber chair. Somebody runs in and yells 'Jones, Jones, your house is on fire!' He jumps up and starts running down the street. Then he stops and says 'Why am I running? My name isn't Jones.'"

Levenson's standards for his "little stories" are extraordinarily high. He is striving earnestly for genuine folk humor of such honesty that everyone will recognize it as having happened to himself. A good example of this sort of thing is what he calls his "good night closet." "Everybody's got a good night closet. You know, the one right next to the front door. People say good night and walk right into the closet. It must have happened to everyone."

Levenson thinks that all humorous situations have been pretty well explored in proverbs or in folk humor and he's a great collector of both. The whole plot of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," he points out, was stated very succinctly in a seven-word proverb: "Fish and guests stink after three days." A good joke or story, he feels, should be almost a one-act play.

"Take my story about mama and the pushcart peddler. Mama had to bargain. Eight kids! With eight kids you got to bargain or nobody eats. And the peddler—he's poor, too. So one day on his cart there's a rusty old spoon. 'How much?' says mama. 'A penny,' says the peddler. 'Too much,' says mama. 'So?' says the peddler. 'Make me an offer.' A story like that tells volumes about the life on Orchard Street, about mama and also about the peddler. 'Milton Berle, fellows like that, think humor has to have a victim. I don't think humor has to have a victim.' This point of view keeps Levenson greatly at odds with his writers, whose material he practically never uses. 'I put in, maybe, a bit about mama taking a swipe at us kids. Right away the writers jump on it. Pretty soon she's cuffing us in every script. They make a monster out of mama. That's not the point. It's what made mama irritable.'"

Levenson is a great reader of all sorts of American authors—Mark Twain, Hemingway, Dos Passes, Faulkner—and he marks down recurring situations as something common to all of us. If they don't recur, they are something special to the author and he won't use them. This is a pretty tough test of humor, but Levenson thinks that humor should be a form of release for the listener. He has always been greatly impressed by Sigmund Freud's "Technique of Wit and Humor," in which Freud stated that humor should delve into the subconscious and release a knot in the listener. Hearing a story which touches on his own experience, the man in the audience thinks: "Hey, I'm normal."

Which is not to say that Levenson is wholly enchanted by Freud and his works. Some of his favorite stories poke a lot of fun at this psychoanalyzed generation. One of his favorites is the one about the mother boasting about how well-adjusted her son is. "He dresses himself, brushes his teeth by himself, goes to school by himself, goes to the psychiatrist by himself.... All this is a pretty far cry from jokes about Hollywood and Vine. Artie Shaw's wives and Margaret Truman—the sort of jokes, told by what Levenson calls the "female impersonators," the gag comedians who are a dime a dozen on TV. Levenson's stuff is pretty rare and wonderful and, while I think it's nice of CBS to keep him so well-heeled for doing nothing, I wish they'd put him back to work. So does he.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE HARD ON HIM BEFORE upbraiding your partner for some unsuccessful bid or play, try to put yourself in his position, find out what was the logic that guided him and then decide whether or not you would have done exactly the same as he. Being hard on your partner after a disastrous hand is not only unfair in many cases, but unwise in nearly all. He already feels as badly as you over the failure, and perhaps worse if it was his act that caused it. Why make him a worse partner in ensuing deals by piling more misery on him for what is beyond recall.

South studied like a true scholar to find some way whereby he could assure that contract, following West's lead of the diamond Q, but at the finish, after trying to develop a squeeze, he had to give up a club trick to West's Q, instead of merely trying one of the two finesses available, both of which would have lost anyway. His misfortune was not the way the finesses worked out, but that East could defend against the heart Q while West held the club Q. If one defender had held both the heart K and the club Q, successful defense would have been impossible when South ran his trumps.

North pilloried South for greed in bidding the grand slam and thereby throwing away an easy small slam. He said that, when his response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps showed he lacked the missing K, South should have settled for small slam.

Let's see if that is so. There were several ways North could have had enough for grand slam, even without the missing heart K. He might have had three little diamonds and two little clubs instead of the contrary. He might have had the club Q with one or more or no other clubs. He might have had long enough small diamonds or hearts to establish one by ruffing, so that the club J could be discarded. Or the squeeze might have worked.

Your Weekend Question
How much high-card strength do you require at the top of a four-card suit to consider it bidable? How much at the top of a five-card suit?

WIFE PRESERVERS

When you hang your sheets on the clothesline after washing, place the hems together and hang them double over the line. Usually after this method has been used, a quick pressing of the hems will be all the ironing needed.

Crosstown Span Finance Group Will Be Named

Mayor, Council Meet On Proposed Issue

A lengthy executive session of the Mayor and Council yesterday resulted in a decision to appoint a committee to search for means of financing a crosstown bridge for this city.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said the committee will be asked to explore the means of financing the project at the least possible cost to the city.

The action taken at the meeting confirms the decision of the Mayor and Council November 2 at a joint conference of federal, state, city and railroad officials.

Mayor Post said the committee will be composed of representative citizens.

He indicated that Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholz has expressed opposition to the proposed overhead bridge.

The cost of the bridge was estimated by Russell H. McCain, State Roads Commission chairman, as $5,200,000, who said the work could be financed jointly by the SRC, the city and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

McCain suggested that these groups get together to work out the traffic alleviation plan on the basis of the financial ability of the city. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, through C. T. Williams, division superintendent, said the railroad will cooperate in any plan which involves crossings.

The grade crossing elimination plan began in 1938, according to Maryland State Roads Commission records. In 1944, the engineering firm of Whitman Requaard and Associates of Baltimore brought the plans up to date.

Three years later the same company revised the original estimate and showed the total project would amount to $3,500,000 as compared to the present estimate of $5,200,000.

Use Of School Tokens To Be Restricted

Night And Saturday Use Is Abolished

Notices of restrictions on the use of school tokens when school is not in session were posted in buses here yesterday by the Cumberland Transit Lines.

The notices said that beginning Monday, school tokens will be accepted from students from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on days when school is in regular session.

At a conference with Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday afternoon, Guy M. Davis, president of the lines, said children may also use the tokens on Sundays from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m., while attending Sunday school or church services.

He told Mayor Post he believed religious education should have the same privilege of a reduced fare as public education.

School tokens are sold during the school term for 20 for $1. Their use is discontinued during the summer months when school is not in session.

Davis said last night the purpose of the reduced fare school tokens is to get students to school without imposing too heavy a financial burden upon the parents.

He said the school fare has been kept at its present 20 for $1 rate in order to accomplish just that purpose but indicated that the fare is too low to pay the cost of the service.

The change means, he added, that school tokens cannot be used at night and on Saturdays, when school is not in regular session.

Church Council Seeks Korea Relief Material

Food, clothing, blankets and other necessities to aid in the relief of needy Koreans are being collected by members of the Council of Church Women here.

A truck from the Church World Service Center at New Windsor will be in Cumberland Tuesday morning to pick up the materials. Thus far, collections have been made here, Frostburg and area communities. The collections are held every three months and headquarters for the materials, including used fats and kitchen utensils, is at the Living Stone Church of the Brethren. Residents are asked to get their contributions in by Monday evening.

The Weather

Autumn played a return engagement on the local stage yesterday, following a week-long preview of Winter, 1951. The crisp fall breeze and bright sunshine did much to raise the spirits of chilled Cumberlanders. High temperature was 55 degrees, the low 28, and by 8 p. m. the official thermometer was back down to 39 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 56 per cent. A huge, clear halo surrounded the moon, a traditional sign that worse weather could be expected. The Weather Bureau, however, was unimpressed. Its prediction for today: some cloudiness and warmer, with high reading of 60-65. Not so cold tonight.

Heart Disease Tops List Of Fatal Ailments

Kills Twice As Many As Cancer

Heart disease remains top on the list of killers, according to the most recent issue of the bulletin of the State Department of Health.

In Allegany County alone, heart ailments killed 23 of the 71 persons who died during August. Nearest contender was cancer, which took 12 lives, half the number taken by heart trouble.

Elsewhere in the state, the ratio was even greater. Some 661 Marylanders died of heart disease, while cancer accounted for 267 deaths. The proportion was something like 2.48 to one.

Of the 71 Allegany Countians who died during the month, 36 were Cumberland residents. Twelve of the heart disease victims and eight of those who succumbed to cancer lived in the city.

Five county residents died in accidents, one of these in an automobile accident. Two died of pneumonia, two of cerebral hemorrhage, and one each of tuberculosis, syphilis, whooping cough, and nephritis. Twenty-three deaths were attributed to other causes.

Aside from fatalities, venereal disease and pneumonia led the list of reported cases of notifiable diseases. Ten cases of venereal disease and five of pneumonia were reported.

Tuberculosis was second with four cases, and lobar pneumonia was next with three. Two cases of mumps and two of bronchopneumonia were reported. Typhoid fever, influenza and erysipelas brought one report each.

Births during the same period totaled 167, 91 of them in Cumberland. Of the seven infant deaths, three were attributed to premature birth, one to respiratory disease, one to congenital malfunction, and two to miscellaneous causes.

Local Motorist Hurt In Mishap

A Cumberland motorist was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday suffering injuries received when his automobile was involved in a two-car collision in Ridgeley, W. Va., about 5 p. m.

Identified by police as Joseph Nelson, 20, of 321 Race Street, the youth suffered lacerations of the head and possible chest injury and will be x-rayed today, attaches said. The accident occurred at Potomac Avenue on Route 28, according to H. L. Henry, chief of police of Ridgeley, when Nelson, traveling toward Cumberland, rounded a curve on the extreme left of the white line, and collided head-on with a car operated by Eldon Crowe, RFD No. 1, Ridgeley.

Crowe was forced to leave the road but was unable to avoid being hit by the oncoming vehicle, police said. An investigation is being continued according to Chief Henry.

District VFW Membership Rally Set Here Tomorrow

The 1951-52 membership rally of District No. 3, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW, Vernon A. Crable, district commander, announced last night.

Officers and members of the nine VFW posts in the district are expected to be present for the affair. A program is being planned with talks given by various district commanders as to how new members can be gotten.

Membership chairman for the district is T. K. Walley, who is also chairman for the drive of the local post. The aim of the campaign, Walley said, is to go "over the top" and pass last year's quota of members. Raymond F. Whitehair is VFW commander of the Cumberland VFW Post.

District Commander Crable cites the following reasons for men to join the Veterans of Foreign Wars: The VFW has worked for the past 50 years for the welfare of the ex-serviceman, the nation and communities. The organization gives direct aid to needy comrades and their dependents. It is strongly democratic and the members determine leadership and policies.

VFW objectives are live goals, not just smooth-sounding platitudes; and membership is limited to men who saw action in combat theatres of war which means comradeship, sociability, and cooperation among veterans of similar experiences.

Included in District No. 3 are: Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Cumberland; Post No. 1936, Hagerstown; Post No. 2462, Frostburg; Post No. 5280, Lonaconing; Post 5282, Oakland; Post No. 6025, Mt. Savage; Post No. 6775, McCoole; Post No. 8409, Friendsville, and Post No. 9451, Oldtown.

All men interested in joining the Veterans of Foreign Wars may attend the rally tomorrow. Refreshments will be served.

Associated Press Group To Name Committee To Halt News Censorship

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press agreed today to name a committee to keep a watch on news censorship.

The association adopted a resolution calling for such a committee and expressing opposition to all closed meetings and "off-the-record" remarks by officials and government agencies.

The resolution said it is the unanimous opinion of the association "that there is a growing tendency toward censorship in the United States" and that "censorship is on the increase in Maryland and District of Columbia governmental agencies."

COMING HERE—Erle Cocke, Jr., immediate past National Commander of the American Legion, is scheduled as special guest here at the annual Elks Memorial Service, which will be held in Fort Hill High School auditorium Sunday night, December 2. A Georgian, he was designated this year as one of the outstanding young men in the United States by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Abe Gets $600 Verdict In Suit

Harry E. Abe, Wiley Ford, W. Va., yesterday was awarded a $600 verdict by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury in a $5,000 suit he had filed against a fellow West Virginian as a result of a sidewalk scuffle on Virginia Avenue in June.

Defendant in the suit was Earl M. See, Fort Ashby. Both men are employed in the South Cumberland yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

In his declaration, Abe contended that he was "maliciously assaulted" by See in the 500 block Virginia Avenue on June 7 as a result of which he lost partial use of his right arm.

Abe was represented by Attorney Edward J. Ryan and counsel for See were Thomas Lohr Richards and H. Gasaway Shores.

Twelve of the 61 members of the Allegany County Affiliate of the American School Food Service Association will attend the association's national convention in New York City this weekend.

William P. Cooper, director of the school lunch program in Allegany County, said yesterday that over half of the county school lunch employees eligible belong to the association. He believes this is the highest membership percentage of any county in the country.

Besides attending the meetings of the convention, the Allegany group will be guests at a luncheon Monday at the Hotel Statler. They also will be guests Sunday evening at a television show, "What's My Line," and some members of the group may participate.

Members attending from Allegany County are Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, school lunch supervisor; Mrs. Jane Legge, Fort Hill High School cafeteria manager; Mrs. Caroline King, Allegany High School cafeteria manager; Mrs. Nettie Wills, East Side School cafeteria manager; Mrs. Lucy Klavuhn, West Side School cafeteria manager; Mrs. Bertha Whetzel, Crestwood School lunch employee; Mrs. Alice Sowers, Virginia Avenue School cafeteria manager; Miss Imogene Caudill, Eckhart School principal; Mrs. Mary Steele, treasurer of the Allegany County School Food Service Association; Mrs. Margaret Johnson, head cook at Fort Hill High School, and Mr. and Mrs. Cooper.

West Side Youngsters Plan Rock Garden

Two West Side School sixth-graders yesterday called on County Agent R. F. McHenry and Soil Conservationist Martin Gordon to get some advice about a rock garden they are planning to beautify the school property.

The pupils identified themselves as Billy Sulser and Barbara Johnson. They are in Miss Margaret Idabelle Ewing's class. Billy had all of the questions which he wanted answered written on a sheet of note paper.

McHenry agreed to offer advice on what flowers should be planted and Gordon will suggest ways to keep the soil from washing away from the hillside rock garden.

Education Week Focuses Interest On County Schools

Md. Legislative Group Ends Race Track Study

Airing To Continue In Guard Purchase

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—A Legislative Council committee ended today its study for the time being of the state's purchase of the Havre de Grace race track.

The two days of hearings produced defense of the purchase by National Guard officers although they admitted the track was not entirely adequate for training.

The committee also was told by Adjutant General Milton A. Reckord the sale "embarrassed" him because he was president of Pimlico, one of the sellers. Another military officer said he and others insisted on the sale even though they knew of Reckord's feeling of embarrassment. Other Hearings Seen

The committee may call other witnesses at future hearings before writing a report for the Legislative Council.

The committee was appointed after State Senator Turnbull (D-Baltimore) raised the question of why the state bought the track after Reckord told the legislature last winter the National Guard was not interested in buying it.

Reckord was president of Havre de Grace and recommended it be sold in January to Pimlico and Laurel for $1,800,000. He then became president of the Maryland Jockey Club, operator of Pimlico. The state recently bought the track for $500,000 as a National Guard replacement for Camp Ritchie which was sold to the federal government.

State purchase of the track was recommended by a committee of National Guard officers. Brig. Gen. Henry C. Evans, one of the committee, said today:

Inadequate For Training "We decided that whether the general (Reckord) would be embarrassed or not, it wasn't fair to the state to make it spend more money when such a site was available."

He said the track was not adequate for training the National Guard, but was suitable for other needs such as warehouses, maintenance and repair shops.

John D. Schapiro, president of Maryland State Fair, Inc., which operates Laurel, and a large stockholder in Pimlico, told the committee the two tracks were asking $1,000,000 for the Havre de Grace property. But he said the $500,000 from the state was the "only firm offer" received.

While developing music for the average student, the music teachers remain alert to special talent shown by the few and encourage it, Kopp observed.

What outsiders have said about Allegany County music students is an indication of the success of the program offered here.

Last summer, for instance, when the Allegany High School band appeared in the Lions International parade at Atlantic City, N. J., it was ranked among the top four bands out of some 150 in the parade.

In the fall of 1950, Fort Hill High School band appeared before some 12,000 Maryland teachers at their convention in Baltimore. After playing in Madison Square Garden in 1949, the Fort Hill band on two successive years was invited to lead Macy's traditional pre-Christmas parade in New York City on Thanksgiving Day. Because of local interest in the Fort Hill-Allegany football game the same day, the invitation had to be declined.

Piano students at Mt. Royal School also have come in for major praise. When they appeared at the Piano Educators' Conference here last month, Dr. Raymond Burrows of New York City said they were the most outstanding group of the type he had ever seen. As national chairman for piano education of the National Music Educators' Association, he invited them to come to Philadelphia to appear at the association's convention next year. They did go to Baltimore later last month and demonstrated their ability to teachers from all over Maryland.

A few figures will help outline the scope of the music education program.

In the elementary schools, where some music is required for each pupil, there are 341 violin students and 29 cello students. There also are 43 classes of students of woodwind and brass instruments, 45 piano classes, 28 rhythm bands and 17 elementary orchestras, ranging in membership from 10 to 45. Approximately 1,100 third, fourth and fifth graders study in fluteophone classes. Some 255 pupils attend the Saturday workshops and about 325 the summer workshops. A rental plan for certain instruments accommodates 205 children who otherwise might not enjoy the experience.

On the high school level there are 630 students in bands, orchestras or engaged in instrumental instruction. Music is required in the junior high school grades and is elective in the senior high school years.

The responsibility for vocal music education rests with the individual classroom teacher. However, a special vocal music teacher goes to every school in the county.

Adults are not overlooked either. Aden Lewis, who supervises piano instruction in the county schools, teaches a class of adults one night each week at Fort Hill High School. Adults who want vocal music instruction are encouraged to join the Cumberland Choral Society.

Jack Platt, supervisor of music education, heads a staff of 31 full time music teachers in the county school system.

During the day, the visitors were taken on a tour of the Washington Post's News plant by Publisher Graham.

W. T. Delaplaine, of the Frederick (Md.) Post, is president of the association.

Music Is Integral Part Of Program

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of five articles on specific phases of the expanded program in the Allegany County public school system.)

By ALBERT D. DARBY, Jr., News Staff Writer

Tomorrow begins American Education Week.

This special designation of the week in which Armistice Day falls is the result of the combined efforts of the American Legion, the National Education Association and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

American Education Week provides a sound reason for focusing attention on the program offered in the public schools of Allegany County.

For a beginning article, music education will be highlighted. Some citizens have the mistaken conception that this program is operated primarily to encourage young musical prodigies.

This program, which is compulsory through the first nine years of school and elective thereafter, has a number of other values. Music appreciation in itself has an aesthetic value of giving the pupils a responsiveness to the beautiful in art and nature. Music is a natural emotion.

Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp has pointed out some of the other immediate and long range values of music education.

Music education, he notes, centers around group activities and encourages young pupils to get along with each other through cooperation.

The communities of Allegany County are benefited by the music education program which is considered among the best in the public schools of Maryland.

Superintendent Kopp offers a number of illustrations. The Cumberland Choral Society, which sponsors a number of special musical events here each year, includes in its membership many graduates of the public school system who first were guided along the road to music appreciation in their school days.

Community bands around Allegany County are sprinkled with young men who received their music training in the schools. Church choirs number in their members many products of the public school music program, too.

While developing music for the average student, the music teachers remain alert to special talent shown by the few and encourage it, Kopp observed.

What outsiders have said about Allegany County music students is an indication of the success of the program offered here.

Last summer, for instance, when the Allegany High School band appeared in the Lions International parade at Atlantic City, N. J., it was ranked among the top four bands out of some 150 in the parade.

In the fall of 1950, Fort Hill High School band appeared before some 12,000 Maryland teachers at their convention in Baltimore. After playing in Madison Square Garden in 1949, the Fort Hill band on two successive years was invited to lead Macy's traditional pre-Christmas parade in New York City on Thanksgiving Day. Because of local interest in the Fort Hill-Allegany football game the same day, the invitation had to be declined.

Piano students at Mt. Royal School also have come in for major praise. When they appeared at the Piano Educators' Conference here last month, Dr. Raymond Burrows of New York City said they were the most outstanding group of the type he had ever seen. As national chairman for piano education of the National Music Educators' Association, he invited them to come to Philadelphia to appear at the association's convention next year. They did go to Baltimore later last month and demonstrated their ability to teachers from all over Maryland.

A few figures will help outline the scope of the music education program.

In the elementary schools, where some music is required for each pupil, there are 341 violin students and 29 cello students. There also are 43 classes of students of woodwind and brass instruments, 45 piano classes, 28 rhythm bands and 17 elementary orchestras, ranging in membership from 10 to 45. Approximately 1,100 third, fourth and fifth graders study in fluteophone classes. Some 255 pupils attend the Saturday workshops and about 325 the summer workshops. A rental plan for certain instruments accommodates 205 children who otherwise might not enjoy the experience.

On the high school level there are 630 students in bands, orchestras or engaged in instrumental instruction. Music is required in the junior high school grades and is elective in the senior high school years.

The responsibility for vocal music education rests with the individual classroom teacher. However, a special vocal music teacher goes to every school in the county.

Adults are not overlooked either. Aden Lewis, who supervises piano instruction in the county schools, teaches a class of adults one night each week at Fort Hill High School. Adults who want vocal music instruction are encouraged to join the Cumberland Choral Society.

Jack Platt, supervisor of music education, heads a staff of 31 full time music teachers in the county school system.

During the day, the visitors were taken on a tour of the Washington Post's News plant by Publisher Graham.

W. T. Delaplaine, of the Frederick (Md.) Post, is president of the association.

City Workers Will Ask Wage Increase Soon

Municipal Union May Request Boost

Members of Local 812, Municipal Workers Union (AFL), will ask the Mayor and Council for a wage increase soon.

Calvin Shipes, president of the local which represents about 90 employees of the Street and Water Departments, declines to elaborate on the statement that the action is contemplated.

It was indicated that the move was prompted by action of the Mayor and Council last month in approving the Maryland Standard Salary Board schedules for workers in the City Health Department, to conform with salaries paid State Health Department personnel working in the same office.

The new salary scale resulted in increases of up to $65.75 a month.

Laborers in both Street and water departments receive $127 an hour, which includes a 7½ cent cost of living wage boost granted last December and seven cents granted July 1 to bring wages in line with boosts granted by the General Assembly to police and firemen.

Minimum wages rose from 50 cents an hour in 1940 to $1.12½ an hour several years ago when the departments went on a 40 hour week. Other rates in the departments are $1.35½ for chauffeurs, $1.57 for shovel operators, $1.45½ for pavers, $1.35½ for pipefitters and $1.45½ for meter men.

Benefits include 15 working days' vacation, 15 days of sick leave each year, accumulative to 60 days, seven paid holidays and inclusion in the State Pension System.

In Baltimore, the Laborers Union, which gets $1.10 an hour, has threatened to strike unless demands for an increase are met.

Dr. Jones Ends Lecture Series At Fort Hill

1,400 Hear Talk By Evangelist

"You don't have to find God—you have to allow God to find you," Dr. E. Stanley Jones said last night as he ended a week-long lecture tour here with an address before 1,400 people at Fort Hill High School auditorium.

Speaking on "The Most Important 25 Words in History," Dr. Jones said they were these: "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life."

He also said the difference between Christian faith and the non-Christian faiths is that "Religion is man's search for God—the Gospel is God's search for man. There are many religions—but there is but one God."

"No one is farther than one step from God," said Dr. Jones. "There are two ways to go next door to your neighbor—one is to go the 25,000 miles around the world and thus get to your next-door neighbor. The other way is just to step next door."

"The globe-encircling method is the method of finding salvation through penances, self-effort, and self-discipline. The other method is to take the gift of God as a gift—salvation by Grace."

"But when you take salvation by Grace through faith it is not cheap. If you take the gift you belong forever to the Giver."

Chairman for last night's program was Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg. Rev. W. W. Patterson, pastor of LaVale Methodist Church, read the Scriptures, and Rev. Vernon Beckman, pastor of Wiley Ford Church of the Brethren, led prayer.
